Welcome Back

Welcome back to the new term and to 2021.

What an introduction to the new year - not what we expected at all!

We are looking forward to introducing you to our brand new online platform - 'Google For Education' - next week. As explained in the letters sent out earlier this week, staff are receiving their training on Monday 11th January, information will then be sent out to you on Tuesday 12th January, with the intention to start using this new platform at the end of the week.

We ask that you are patient as we begin to roll out the programme and that we work together to iron out any issues that might occur.

Google For Education

We are all looking forward to rolling out Google for Education next week. Google's online platform will change the way we communicate with you, allowing us to set work directly and giving your children the ability to hand it back in once complete. Google's suite of education apps each have their own dedicated app that can be downloaded to your Apple or Android devices and they can also all be accessed from any device with a web browser, including laptops, tablets, modern games consoles and even Smart TVs. On top of this, it will give us the technical capability to deliver live and recorded video lessons, the first of which took place with some of Class 4 this morning, as a trial run. More details, along with individual logins, will be sent out early next week.

Please don't forget, if you have any issues or queries you want to discuss with any member of Staff please contact us either by email, telephone or via Class Dojo.

Have a lovely weekend.

Take care - From all at Ardleigh St. Mary's
