Puffin Festival of Big Dreams

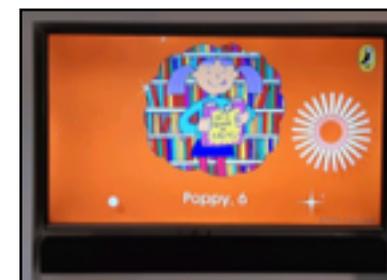

Many of you thoroughly enjoyed the 'Puffin Festival of Big Dreams' last week. There was a wonderful range of activities linked to books presented by lots of authors and illustrators.

During the festival children were also encouraged to send in their own 'Big Dreams' and some were chosen to be drawn by the famous illustrator Nick Sharratt. One of our pupils was very proud to have her 'Big Dream' chosen and then appear in picture form on her screen!

Class 2's Poppy Grothier described a dream of a library where you could go and actually eat the books. When you ate the books you could instantly learn all the facts and information from them!

Nick Sharratt loved her idea.

"What a brilliant dream!" he remarked.
We have to agree with him Poppy! Well done!

Poppy, 6, dreams of a library where the books are edible and whatever book you eat, you learn all the facts and information in the book!
